

Distribution of chloroplast haplotypes for California valley oak from several localities through the species' range. Each color represents a different haplotype. A haplotype is a haploid genotype. The ovals shaded areas indicate haplotypes that are distributed across more than one locality.

